What is the goal?
To ignite enthusiasm for Computer Science in interested young women.

Who is it for?
Young women from across Canada who are completing Grade 9 or 10.

When and where are they?
Saturday, May 23 to Saturday May 30, 2015 at the University of Waterloo, Waterloo, Ontario.

How much does it cost?
There is a $150 registration fee to be paid after invited applicants have received their confirmation package.
- Accommodations, meals and other expenses for the week are included at no extra cost.
- Air fare expenses will also be paid by the CEMC.

How do I apply?
All applications must be submitted using our online application system.
1. We are looking for applicants who enjoy problem-solving and are excited by new ideas. Write a short essay (1000-1500 characters) about why you would be a good candidate.
2. Ask your Math, Science or Computing teacher to act as your reference. When you apply, you will receive a URL that your teacher can use to provide a reference for you.
3. Visit www.csgirlsrock.ca to fill in your application and submit your essay.

What is the timeline for online applications?
- Wednesday, February 25, 2015 Applications must have been received by the CEMC.
- Wednesday, March 25, 2015 Acceptances are emailed to invited applicants by this date.

What will I learn?
Lectures, labs, and hands-on activities typically investigate ideas demonstrating the breadth of Computer Science. For example, this might include introductions to cryptography, Bioinformatics, Internet search engines, graphics, human-computer interaction and hardware. All sessions are lead by university professors and graduate students.

Who is selected?
We receive many applications for this seminar. Application packages are reviewed carefully. The strongest eligible applicants are entered into a lottery. We are looking for young women who are bright and interested in mathematics and computer science, whether or not they have experience.

Where can I get more information?
E-mail csgirls@uwaterloo.ca or visit www.csgirlsrock.ca. More details will be mailed out to those who are accepted.
